EWTN Witness

I'm sure you have heard many stories of people coming back to the Catholic faith. But maybe you have not heard one as long as mine. My family and I left the Catholic Church in 1959. Only recently did I come back, after re-connecting with my faith on EWTN. For the first time in 60 years I am right with the Trinity. It seems God's patience allowed me to live long enough to get straight with Him.

The Dairy Maid-Right is a play that addresses child migration, current immigration policy and cultural conflict in rural Nebraska. An award winning Nebraskan playwright, Ellen Struve has worked with the Shelterbelt and the Creighton Theatre department to develop this new play about what happens when two rural Nebraska teens of different cultural backgrounds discover a child migrant and must confront duty to family, the meaning of citizenship, and the challenge of compassion. This is an important story to tell this summer. For more information, show times, and tickets go to www.shelterbelt.org or find us on Facebook. Group rates are available.
