Friends,

At some point during the late winter or early spring of 1987, a young mother was faced with a difficult decision. Doctors had diagnosed the unborn son in her womb with an amoebic infection and told her that he was a risk to her health. The doctor recommended that the child be aborted. Fortunately for the Florida Gators, the parents refused, and, on August 14, 1987, Timothy Richard Tebow was born. Not only did Tim Tebow become the first sophomore ever to win the Heisman Trophy, which is awarded each year to the best player in college football, but he also led the Florida Gators to two national championships. He was the first-round draft pick of the Denver Broncos in the National Football League.

It does make one wonder how many would-be Heisman Trophy winners weren't so fortunate. In fact, did you ever wonder how many of the millions of aborted children since 1973 would have won the Heisman Trophy. Well, the folks at Human Life International did and they have crunched the numbers, with staggering results. According to their analysis from the 2007 Statistical Abstract of the United States, the answer is twelve. Twelve Heisman Trophy winners have been aborted (they did not say how many would have attended Nebraska). They also broke down the list of other professions affected by this holocaust as follows:

- 2 US Presidents
- 7 Supreme Court Justices
- 102 US Senators and 589 Congressmen
- 31 Nobel Prize winners
- 123 Olympic Gold medalists
- 6,092 professional athletes
- 6,852 priests and 11,010 nuns (now I know why I'm responsible for 4 parishes!)

This list is staggering for a number of reasons. For instance, who knows what those Nobel Prize winners may have accomplished, what diseases might now have cures, what technologies may have advanced? Who knows what those presidents would have accomplished? Who knows how many of those farmers and ranchers would have lived in our area, boosting our economy and easing the enrollment pressures on our schools? Who knows how many of those priests and nuns might have saved marriages, converted sinners or became saints?

This is why saying that abortion should be a choice between a mother and her doctor is utter nonsense! Abortion influences all of us, precisely because it robs us of individuals that God has willed, for whatever reason, to come into existence. In fact, if Sacred Scripture has taught us anything, it is that the life of those children conceived in unusual circumstances (e.g. Isaac, Jacob, Samson, Samuel, John the Baptist, and, of course, Jesus) are particularly important.

Of course, we don't need Scripture to tell us this. All we really need is the example of one of our former presidents. Barrack Obama was conceived out of wedlock to a couple that, instead of aborting him and moving on with their lives, tried briefly to make a go of it and get married. It didn't work and the marriage lasted only two years, leaving young Barrack to bounce from country to country, eventually ending up living with his grandparents in Hawaii. Scarred from his childhood trauma, young Barrack turned to drugs. Overcoming this difficult upbringing, Barrack Obama was able to climb the political ladder, until in 2008, he was elected President of the United States.

Most viewing this conception from the lens of our 2021 society might suggest that such a conception was doomed to failure from the beginning. Perhaps, had Planned Parenthood been the force then that they are today, the young Stanley Ann Dunham, Barrack's mother, would have aborted him. Thank God she did not, because, regardless of what you think of his politics, his example of the greatness of the American Dream is profound. If Barrack Obama, given his circumstances, can become president, who's to say anyone else can't?

Unfortunately and ironically, Barrack Obama does. When talking about HIV and abstinence education, he said, "I've got two daughters; nine years old and six years old. I am going to teach them first of all about values and morals. But if they make a mistake, I don't want them punished with a baby." This is horrifying on numerous levels. For not only does our president seem to think that there are circumstances in which he would view his own grandchildren as "punishments", but he also fails to recognize the blessing of his own conception. I would guess his former Vice-President thinks the same way.

In Christ,

Fr. EJA

3RD SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

He walked along a little farther and saw James, the son of Zebedee, and his brother John.

They too were in a boat mending their nets. Then he called them. So they left their father Zebedee in the boat along with the hired men and followed him. - Mk 1:19-20

THE FEAST OF
THE CONVERSION OF
ST. PAUL
THE APOSTLE

"Repent, and believe in the gospel." Some type of honest and sincere repentance is necessary for any type of authentic growth and maturity. We have to come to the realization, unless we are happy wallowing in immaturity and superficiality, that the way we have been doing things is not the best or the healthiest. There isn't a human being alive who hasn't acted foolishly or erratically at the cost of almost losing a treasured relationship. "Why did I act that way?" is a question we often ponder after some reflection and enlightenment. Faith works the same way. Stumbling through life and bumping up against meaninglessness, a person can begin to see that something significant is missing. They see that there is merit to a relationship with God and an embrace of faith. Before these can take root, sincere sorrow for past wrong doing, missed opportunities, errors in judgment, and short sightedness is necessary. Repentance is necessary. Then having realized that we were walking in darkness, we can rejoice that by God's grace we now see the light.
