Friends,

Every gift comes with responsibility. Whether it's the small child's artwork that must be dutifully placed on the refrigerator door or the gaudy Father's Day tie that must be worn, if only once; failing to make use of a gift is almost always hurtful to the giver. The gifts of God are no different. Just like any gift, the gifts we receive from God are given to us to be used.

This is particularly true of the gift of our Catholic Faith. In fact, the Catholic Faith is the greatest of all possible gifts, not only because it best prepares us for eternal life, but also because it is the best path to happiness in this life. This is something that is easily forgotten. Living the truth of our Catholic Faith is not some arduous burden that must be endured. It is a joy-filled blessing because it gives us the brightest path to authentic temporal happiness.

But just like all other gifts, our Catholic Faith is a gift that must be used. In fact, the prophet Ezekiel accentuates the grave responsibility that all of God's prophets, including us, have in proclaiming God's Word. The Lord says to Ezekiel, "I have appointed you a watchman for the house of Israel. If I tell the wicked that they shall die and you do not relay this message, the wicked shall die for his guilt, but I will hold you responsible for his death. But if you warn the wicked...and he refuses to turn from his ways, he shall die for his guilt, but you shall save yourself." The lesson of this short reading is clear. All of us blessed with the fullness of truth that is the Catholic Faith have the grave responsibility of sharing this gift with others.

This can be a problem for us today, especially given our modern society's passion for what it calls tolerance. Of course, tolerance, when properly understood, is a virtuous action. But, unlike the implicit claim of many in our society, tolerance is not the supreme Christian virtue. In fact, tolerance of sinful behavior can itself be sinful. Not only can tolerance of sin imply the condoning of sin, but such tolerance also runs contrary to the explicit command of Jesus in the gospel of St. Matthew. In that gospel, Jesus tells His disciples, "If your brother sins against you, go and tell him his fault, between you and him alone."

Notice two things. First, Jesus wants His disciples to point out the faults of their brothers. The reason why should be clear. If we have been given the great gift of the fullness of truth that leads to human happiness, we must share so that others can know this truth and be set free. Additionally, when we fail to share this gift of knowledge of right and wrong with our neighbor, we are putting the lamp God lit in us under a bushel basket. Consequently, we run the risk of the condemnation promised by the prophet Ezekiel.

Second, the starting point for this is not the public forum, be it the coffee shop or the local bar or twitter. Rather, when pointing out the faults of others, Jesus tells His disciples to do it privately and face to face so that no scandal or embarrassment may occur. It is only after that hasn't worked is the public disclosure of failings necessary. When you have exhausted every other option, the sole hope for the brother's recognition of his sinful behavior is now the reprimand of the authorities.

But, Father, it might be argued, Jesus would be appalled at such intolerant behavior. After all, isn't it Jesus who gave us the golden rule; "do unto others as you would have them do unto you?" Additionally, I seem to remember Jesus saying that you should remove the plank from your own eye before trying to remove the speck from your brother's. What about loving your enemies?

Of course, before we were to ever point out the failings of someone else, we must listen carefully to these words of Jesus. We must strive diligently to remove the weakness present in our own lives before confronting the weakness of others. But, the fact that we, too, are sinful, the fact that we, too, are human, does not eliminate our responsibility to confront sinful behavior.

But, the only way this can be legitimately done is because of love. If we really love our brother who is sinning, then we would want, more than anything else, more than his esteem, more than his friendliness and even more than his affection, to help him overcome the sinful behavior that is keeping him, not just from God, but from the community as well. Our motivation for correcting is not self-righteousness or pride or because they offend us, but rather it is love.

In Christ,

ON EWTN: Blessed Angelico, June 27 at 12:30 PM.

Through his art, Dominican friar and Renaissance painter Fra Angelico contemplated salvation history in a unique way. This EWTN Original Documentary looks at his life and work where realism gives way to the spiritual.

For you know the gracious act of our Lord Jesus Christ,
that for your sake he became poor although he was rich, so that by his poverty you might become rich.

CLUSTER PARISH ANNOUNCEMENTS

CHECK OUT THIS PAGE EVERY WEEK TO SEE WHAT'S HAPPENING IN OUR PARISHES, THE SURROUNDING PARISHES, SNIPITS FROM FR. OLSEN, FR. WAYNE & MORE!

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many people that gave the exceptional care that ultimately saved my life. Without the fast action of the medical professionals in the stands that rushed out to assist in the situation, I would not be here today. I am also very grateful and thankful for the fast-acting EMTs who, within a few short minutes, were there with an AED to help get my heart started again and in rhythm. I am thankful for the countless hours that an EMT spends in training for these situations, "all for a volunteer job". The last people I need to thank, who also played a huge roll, were the fans. I have been told by a few different people that you stopped and prayed for me, and you also stayed and prayed a while after we left. I truly believe that there was no better place for me to have this happen to me. When I made it to Columbus the doctor said he didn't need to do anything but tie the bow on top of all the work that was already done. I am forever grateful and owe everyone my life. Without everyone there doing what needed to be done, this would have been a completely different outcome. I hope to, through time, meet everyone and say thank you in person. Until then, this is my humble thanks. From the bottom of my healing heart, thank you all again! ~Shawn Korth
