Friends,

When you think about it, our world is full of signs. Whether it's the red octagon that commands the driver to stop or the friendly wave to our neighbor that signals "hello", signs are part of the human experience. It is not surprising, then, that Christianity also makes use of this phenomenon. Yet of all the signs that represent Christianity, none is more identifiable than the cross. After all, Christianity's link with the cross is so intimate, so cherished, that it can never be separated.

Interestingly, however, Christianity did not use the cross as its sign until early in the fourth century. It was then that a junior emperor named Constantine received a vision. While preparing for battle against a far superior foe, Constantine heard a voice saying, "in this sign, conquer." Along with this voice came a vision of the cross of Jesus Christ. Constantine immediately affixed this sign of the cross on his soldiers' breastplates and on their flags. Then, led by the cross, Constantine charged into battle. Sure enough, Constantine's army secured a victory so complete that it led to the reunification of the Roman Empire under his leadership. It only made sense, then, that when Constantine finally legalized Christianity a few years later, he also made the cross its official emblem.

In reality, there could be no more perfect symbol for the Christian than the cross. For the cross represents everything it means to be a follower of Jesus Christ. After all, what does the cross symbolize? It symbolizes the power of our human weakness, the strength in our humility. To see this, simply take a close look at St. Paul's letter to the Philippians. Notice what St. Paul says, "Christ Jesus, though He was in the form of God, did not regard equality with God something to be grasped. Rather, He emptied Himself, taking the form of a slave, coming in human likeness." Think about this for a minute. Jesus Christ, the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity, does not cling to this status. Rather, He gives it up to become something infinitely less dignified, a human being. In taking on our human condition, God the Son is making Himself a slave by being confined to His creation.

But, the slavery Jesus Christ endures doesn't end there. For the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity, God the Son, also becomes obedient to His creation. This amazes me. God the Son becomes obedient, obedient to His parents, to His teachers and to the countless number of other adults He would have encountered -- all of which, with the exception of His mother, would have been mere fallen human creatures. It is through this obedience that Jesus demonstrates His almost unbelievable humility.

Of course, the humility of Jesus runs even deeper. For Jesus, God the Son, also condescends to suffer the most terrifying, most horrific of all human experiences -- the experience of death. But, not just any death as St. Paul makes clear, but one of the most horrific and one of the most humiliating deaths imaginable -- the death reserved only for the most heinous of criminals -- death on a cross.

It is then, at the peak of Jesus' humiliation, that the power of God can be most perfectly manifested. For with all of His glory stripped away, with nothing further left to be given, Jesus is exalted by God and restored to His rightful place at His Father's right hand. Not only that, but Jesus is also given the name, the title, so superior to all other names or titles that it demands that at it "every knee should bend and every tongue confess" that the man all know as Jesus the Christ, is also Jesus the LORD. You see, only in this most profound of humiliations was Jesus able to manifest the depths of His strength, and in this most profound of weaknesses demonstrate the limitlessness of His power.

CLUSTER PARISH ANNOUNCEMENTS

CHECK OUT THIS PAGE EVERY WEEK TO SEE WHAT'S HAPPENING IN OUR PARISHES, OUR SURROUNDING PARISHES, SNIPITS FROM FR. OLSEN, FR. STEVE & MORE!

This is the best part. For the power demonstrated by the humiliation of Jesus Christ on the cross is so strong that it even transcends time. For the Christian, the wood of the cross becomes the new tree of life. For just as Adam and Eve could eat from the fruit of the old tree of life and never die, so, too, the Catholic Christian can eat from the fruit of the new tree of life, the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ, and live forever. For the power that emanates from the triumph of the weakness of Jesus Christ has no limitation, not even time.

All of these insights are contained in the most beautiful, most profound sign of Christianity, the cross. For the cross encapsulates everything that it means to be a disciple of Jesus Christ. For as Jesus Himself says in the gospels, "anyone who wishes to be my disciple must take up his cross and follow me." This is so hard for us precisely because we are so weak. But here again the cross provides the answer for us. For if we persevere like Jesus did, our weakness will be turned into strength just like it was for Jesus.

This is why there is no more essential and no more poignant sign decorating Christian Churches or homes, classrooms or offices than the cross. For the sight of the cross serves to provide us with the same encouragement in our own adversity that it did to the emperor Constantine eighteen centuries ago. Not surprisingly, it uses the exact same language, "in this sign, conquer!"

Blessings,

Fr. EJA
